MEMORANDUM

From: Wilkinson Barker Knauer LLP

Re: WBK Advisory - 2014 Calendar of Important Dates for Broadcasters

Each year, every broadcaster has many routine regulatory deadlines that it must meet. A broadcaster's routine regulatory obligations include its annual Equal Employment Opportunities ("EEO") public file report, quarterly issues/programs lists, and annual FCC regulatory fees. Television stations have the extra burden of complying with requirements of the children's television rules.

With the TV license renewal cycle in full swing, many TV broadcasters also have additional obligations to meet the deadlines imposed by the renewal process. Radio stations in most states have already filed their renewal applications, but radio broadcasters in a number of states still have renewal post-filing obligations, and stations in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania still have to file their renewals as the radio renewal cycle comes to a close in 2014.

To help keep track of these and other obligations, we have put together this advisory to provide a useful preview of, and some guidance for, many of the important FCC compliance-related dates, as well as other deadlines broadly applicable to significant portions of the broadcast industry. The attached calendar is not intended to cover all filing dates that apply to a station or licensee. Instead, the calendar is meant to highlight some of the more critical deadlines which we have identified in advance. Remember, these dates can change, so be sure to keep up with the latest developments by talking to your attorney or other advisors.

It is also important to check with your accountant, tax advisor and local counsel on dates for filings such as those relating to local business and real estate fees and taxes, filing dates for Equal Employment Opportunity Commission ("EEOC") submissions for large employers, and other requirements that may be applicable to your station(s).

In our calendar, we provide a description of the obligation, the due date and the place where compliance is required (e.g. through an FCC filing, an addition to the public file, etc.). Note that TV broadcasters now have an online public file obligation. So all of those documents that had simply been put into a station's paper public file (like the annual EEO public inspection file report or the quarterly issues programs lists) now need to be uploaded by the applicable deadline to the station's online public file, hosted by the FCC.

Also included in the calendar are other one-time events unique to this year, including the obligation for television stations that are not an affiliate of one of the Big 4 networks in a Top 50 market to upload new documents added to their political files to the FCC's online public inspection file website on a going-forward basis starting on July 1, 2014.

With the 2014 elections for Congress, as well as for many state and local offices, broadcasters around the country must be mindful of a number of Lowest Unit Rate periods during which stations can charge political candidates (federal, state, and local) who are running in a general or primary election no more than the Lowest Unit Rate for the same class and amount of time on the station. Lowest Unit Rate periods begin 45 days before each primary election and 60 days before the general election. The 45 day period also applies to primary run-off elections. While the reasonable access provisions of the political rules do not apply to state and local races, if stations decide to sell time to candidates in these elections, they do have to charge Lowest Unit Rates in the 45 days before a primary and the 60 days before the general election.

In the calendar, we have attempted to identify the Lowest Unit Rate periods for all federal elections taking place in 2014. These dates are based on certain calendars maintained by the FEC and the National Association of Secretaries of State. As such, they may not be entirely accurate, and they may change before the actual election. Thus, it is important for stations to confirm these primary dates, and the corresponding Lowest Unit Rate periods, locally for the states they serve. There may also be different dates for local primaries and elections, so be aware of the Lowest Unit Rate periods that may arise for candidates participating in those elections.

The calendar also reflects the monthly obligation to pay SoundExchange royalties for streaming music on the Internet under the rate structures generally applicable to broadcasters, and the associated requirement to provide information about the songs played in these online streams. For noncommercial webcasters, small webcasters, and those electing to pay royalties based on various other webcasting agreements, webcasters should check the agreement under which they are operating to make sure that these are the dates applicable under those agreements. The details of the SoundExchange obligations are complex. So seek legal advice with any questions about the details of your compliance. Stations also have obligations to pay ASCAP, BMI and SESAC. Review your agreements with these organizations to make sure that you meet all required deadlines.

As the year progresses, there will no doubt be other compliance deadlines that arise. We try to provide information about many of these deadlines, and about other regulatory issues that arise during the course of the year, on our blog: <http://www.broadcastlawblog.com/>. Check our blog regularly, and talk to any of the attorneys in our Broadcast Group, for more information about the many deadlines and other issues that will be important to broadcasters in 2014.

While we have included explanatory notes at the end of this document that try to clarify some of the FCC obligations that are not otherwise clear, this calendar is meant only as a guide, and not as a definitive delineation of all obligations of broadcasters. Check with your counsel regularly to make sure that these dates remain accurate, and that no regulatory obligations have changed or arisen since the preparation of this memo. With that background, some important dates for 2014 are set out in the calendar that follows.

ENDNOTES

² The FCC's rules do not specifically require Class A Television Stations to place documentation in their public inspection files demonstrating continuing eligibility for Class A Status on a quarterly basis. However, preparation of the quarterly issues/programs lists provides stations a good opportunity to prepare documentation supporting Class A eligibility also. Class A Television Stations are strongly encouraged to place this information in their public inspection files.

⁴ This information is based on the list of dates available on the website of the Federal Election Commission and/or the National Association of Secretaries of State. It is important to remember that many primary dates are subject to change, and there may be other Lowest Unit Rate periods for state and local elections that are not identified on this calendar.

⁷ LPFM stations and TV and FM Translator Stations are not required to file EEO Program Reports (FCC Form 396).

⁸ Because the June 1st deadline falls on a Sunday and these documents must be submitted to the FCC, the June 1st deadline is extended to the next business day (Monday, June 2nd).

¹⁰ Claims for compensation from the 2013 funds may be filed beginning in July 2014 but must be filed no later than July 31, 2014.

¹¹ A television station may be eligible to receive compensation from the 2013 cable and satellite royalty funds if (1) it holds the copyright to programming it has produced and (2) its signal was either carried as a distant signal on a cable system in 2013 or rebroadcast by a satellite television service provider directly to individual homes.

¹² The precise date for payment of annual FCC regulatory fees is usually determined during the summer. However, the deadline typically is set for a date in mid-September.

¹³ Most likely, annual FCC regulatory fees also will have to be paid by licensees who hold auxiliary broadcast service licenses for stations operated in conjunction with the main station (e.g., remote pickup stations, aural broadcast STLs, intercity relay stations and low power auxiliary stations) in cases where the license or permit was granted on or before October 1, 2013, even if the license or permit expires after October 1, 2013.

¹⁴ Filers must also pay a fee equal to 5% of any gross revenues received from any ancillary or supplementary services provided for a subscription fee or charge or for ancillary or supplementary services for which the filer received compensation from a third party (other than a commercial advertiser) in exchange for transmission of material provided by the third party.
