Greg Sopkin has been working on energy, telecommunications and environmental matters for over 20 years. At the EPA, Greg focused on air quality standards attainment, oil and gas operation compliance, complex Superfund site issues, agriculture and pesticide matters, and drinking water/wastewater/WOTUS compliance. Greg worked closely with air, water, land, and legal directors at the regional and national levels on various legal issues, enforcement matters and rulemakings.

Greg also has represented energy and telecommunications clients at Squire Sanders and Gorsuch Kirgis LLP and represented the Colorado PUC as an assistant attorney general in the Colorado Attorney General's office. He taught at the University of Colorado and has been a member of the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners, serving on the telecommunications, energy and critical infrastructure committees; a member of the Federalist Society, serving on the telecommunications and electronic media practice group executive committee; and director of the Federation for Economically Rational Utility Policy. He received his J.D. in 1991 from the University of Colorado School of Law, where he was on the University of Colorado Law Review, and his BS, with high honors, in 1988 from the University of Illinois. Sopkin, his wife Rebecca and six children live in Lakewood, Colorado.
