Marty Hopkins advises energy clients on a variety of complex regulatory, litigation, and transactional matters. Investor-owned utilities, renewable and conventional generation, energy storage systems, large flexible loads, energy technology companies, private equity investors, developers, and retail electric providers rely on Marty's expertise in state, ISO/RTO, and local regulation when developing projects, transacting, and litigating contested cases before state agencies and in state and federal court. She has significant experience with multi-state and Texas-jurisdictional transmission projects and utility rate proceedings. Marty also regularly advises clients on issues related to registration, certification, reporting, and compliance with state commissions and ISOs/RTOs, including the Electric Reliability Council of Texas.
