2021 Calendar of Important Dates for Broadcasters<sup>1</sup>

We are about to enter 2021 and leave behind an unusual year that caused much upheaval across the radio and television industries. A new administration will enter the White House in early 2021 and the FCC will have a new chair who will look to put his or her stamp on broadcast regulation. What will remain, however, are the many routine regulatory filings, dates, and deadlines that fill a broadcaster's calendar. These include the requirement to prepare an annual Equal Employment Opportunity ("EEO") public inspection file report, to upload quarterly issues/programs lists to the public file, and to pay annual FCC regulatory fees. Dates to note this year will also include Biennial Ownership Reports and the deadline for LPTV stations and TV translators to transition to digital operations. To help keep track of many of these general obligations, we have put together this advisory to provide a preview of many of the important FCC compliance-related dates, as well as other deadlines broadly applicable to significant portions of the broadcast industry. The calendar is not intended to cover all of the filing dates that apply to every station or licensee. Instead, the calendar is meant to highlight some of the more critical deadlines that we can identify in advance. Remember, these dates can change, and new deadlines for action can be added, so be sure to keep up with the latest developments.

The multi-year license renewal cycle that began in 2019 rolls along, with renewal applications for radio stations in Kansas, Nebraska, and Oklahoma and TV stations in Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi due by February 1, 2021. Radio renewal filings will continue through April 2022, concluding with stations in Pennsylvania and Delaware. The TV renewal cycle ends in these same states in April 2023.

Even political broadcasting should not be ignored in 2021 despite it not being a year with any scheduled federal elections. Many states and municipalities do have elections in 2021. These include elections for governor in New Jersey and Virginia, as well as elections for mayor in big cities across the country. Political issue advertising has also become common throughout every year at many stations. We have noted the start of the window for lowest unit rates for the November election, but check locally for relevant dates for primaries and for local elections that may not occur in November and compute the appropriate lowest unit charge window for those political contests. And do not forget the political file obligations that attach to political advertising – even outside the political windows.

For radio broadcasters who stream their programming on the Internet, there are required payment and reporting obligations to SoundExchange for music use. Though the proceeding to set the rates that broadcasters pay for streaming sound recordings on the Internet for 2021-2025 was delayed due to COVID, the new rates, once determined, will become retroactive to January 1 and subject to a true-up process. Watch for the decision on the new royalty rates, likely in April. SoundExchange royalties need to be paid every month and stations also have obligations to pay ASCAP, BMI, SESAC, and GMR. Through litigation, arbitration, and negotiation in <sup>1</sup> This calendar is intended to be a reference guide to important deadlines but is not intended to be an exhaustive list of required filings and will not be updated throughout the year. Filing requirements may change over the year, and new filing requirements may be adopted.

2020, industry agreements with BMI, SESAC, and GMR were settled or extended. We suggest that you review your agreements with these organizations to make sure you meet all required payment and reporting deadlines and watch for developments over these royalties.

Television stations have the extra burden of complying with the children's television rules and the filing of an annual children's television programming report, to be submitted on February 1 (as the normal January 30 due date is on a Saturday). Television stations providing fee-based non-broadcast services with their digital spectrum must file an annual DTV Ancillary/Supplementary Services Report (known as FCC Form 2100 Schedule G, formerly FCC Form 317) in December of each year.

Each year also bring changes from the regulatory obligations that applied in prior years, and 2021 is no different. Perhaps the biggest change you will notice from last year's calendar is the lack of entries noting stations' license renewal pre- and post-filing announcement obligations. The FCC in 2020 eliminated the pre-filing announcement obligation, so stations with renewals no longer need to run such notices. It also changed the post-filing announcement obligation from six announcements on set days over three months to a more flexible schedule of six weekday announcements over four weeks, with at least one announcement per week. This calendar cannot set out the dates these announcements should air as it has done in the past, because the timing depends on when a station files for renewal and when the renewal application is accepted for filing and the exact date for their broadcast can be selected by the broadcaster as long as they are in line with the general outlines provided in the rules.

In our calendar, we provide a description of the obligation, the due date, and the place where compliance is required (e.g., through an FCC filing, an upload to the public file, etc.). Broadcasters have an online public file obligation, and they must ensure that the required documentation (such as the annual EEO public inspection file report or quarterly issues/programs lists) is uploaded by the applicable deadline to the station's FCC-hosted online public file. The online public file makes these deadlines even more important, particularly during the ongoing license renewal cycle, as interested parties (including the FCC) no longer need to come to your station and wade through paper files to review whether you have met your public file obligations. Instead, they can review your file anywhere there is an Internet connection and assess your compliance with the various public file obligations. In 2020, we saw dozens of stations enter into consent decrees with the FCC over the stations' failure to timely upload political advertising orders to their public file and this level of scrutiny is likely to continue through 2021. Don't let your station be caught with late uploads or an incomplete public file.

As the year unfolds, there will no doubt be other compliance deadlines that arise, including comment periods for various rulemakings. We try to provide information about many of these deadlines, and about other regulatory issues on our blog: www.broadcastlawblog.com. Check the blog regularly, sign-up for email alerts about new posts, or get in touch with any of the attorneys in our Broadcast Group for more information about the many deadlines and other issues that will be important to broadcasters in 2021.

With that background and an important reminder to check with your accountant, tax advisor, and local counsel on dates for filings such as those relating to local business and real estate fees and taxes, filing dates for Equal Employment Opportunity Commission submissions for large employers, and other requirements that may be applicable to your station(s), some important dates for 2021 are set out in the calendar that follows.
