2024 Calendar of Important Dates for Broadcasters¹

We are about to embark on what will no doubt be an incredibly busy year for broadcasters. With the presidential election in November 2024, stations will be consumed with issues that arise from that election, both in their on-air programming covering all the news that it generates and in their advertising sales to the candidates and issue advertisers. And, with the recent appointment of Anna Gomez as the fifth FCC Commissioner, there may finally be a resolution of the long-pending 2018 Quadrennial Review which concerns the FCC's review of its broadcast ownership rules, and other regulatory actions to which broadcasters should pay careful attention.

Beyond those issues, routine regulatory filings, dates, and deadlines remain to fill a broadcaster's calendar. These include the requirement to prepare an annual Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) public inspection file report, to upload quarterly issues/programs lists to the public file, and to pay annual FCC regulatory fees. TV stations also have children's television reporting obligations at the end of January.

To help keep track of many of the more general obligations, we have put together this advisory to provide a preview of, and some guidance for, many of the important FCC compliance-related dates, as well as other deadlines broadly applicable to significant portions of the broadcast industry. The attached calendar is not intended to cover all filing dates that apply to every station or licensee. Instead, the calendar is meant to highlight some of the more critical deadlines that we are able to identify in advance. Remember, these dates can change, and new deadlines for action can be added, so be sure to keep up with the latest developments.

The warning about changing dates is particularly true with respect to the dates for lowest unit rates for political elections in 2024 – particularly dates of some of the political primaries, which could change in the upcoming months. We have included the dates for the beginning of the lowest unit rate windows for each of the presidential primaries and caucuses, other non-presidential primaries and runoffs, and the November general election – which we believe to be accurate as of the date we put this calendar together. Also, be on alert for lowest unit rate windows that may arise in your state for state and local elections as well as elections to the U.S. Congress. We have included many of those dates on this calendar – but be on alert for changes and new dates for special elections or local elections not on the normal cycle for their state.² Lowest unit rates begin 45 days before any primary, and 60 days before any general election (including municipal elections). While stations do not have an obligation to sell time to candidates for state and local races, once they decide to do so, all other political obligations arise. Federal candidates, like those running for president, have equal opportunity and reasonable access rights even outside the political windows. And all political sales, including issue advertising, trigger public file

² We have also listed LUR dates by state and month in Appendices I and II, hereto, giving more information as to the races to which the windows apply.

It is also important to check with your accountant, tax advisor, and local counsel on dates for filings such as those relating to local business and real estate fees and taxes, filing dates for Equal Employment Opportunity Commission submissions for large employers, and other requirements that may be applicable to your station(s).

In our calendar, we provide a description of the obligation, the due date, and the place where compliance is required (e.g., through an FCC filing, an addition to the public file). Note that broadcasters have an online public file obligation, and they must ensure that the required documentation (e.g., the annual EEO public inspection file report or the quarterly issues/programs lists) is uploaded by the applicable deadline to the station's FCC-hosted online public file. The online public file makes all of these deadlines even more important as interested parties (including the FCC) need no longer come to your station to review whether you have met your public file obligations. Instead, they can review it anywhere there is an Internet connection and assess your compliance with the various public file obligations. Don't let your station be caught with an incomplete public file because stations can be subject to fines issued by the FCC for public inspection file violations.

As the year progresses, there will no doubt be other compliance deadlines that arise. We try to provide information about many of these deadlines, and about other regulatory issues that arise during the course of the year on our blog: <http://www.broadcastlawblog.com>. Check our blog regularly or talk to any of the attorneys in our Broadcast Group for more information about the many deadlines and other issues that will be important to broadcasters in 2024.

With that background, some important dates for 2024 are set out in the calendar that follows.

November 26, 2024	Aural Descriptions of Visual but Non-Textual Emergency Information Broadcast During Non-News Programming on Television Stations ¹⁹	On-Air	All Commercial and Noncommercial Full Power Television, Class A Television, LPTV, and TV Translator Stations

¹⁹ This requirement, to provide an audio description on a TV station’s Secondary Audio Channel of any non-textual emergency information broadcast by a station during non-news programming (e.g., a weather radar image showing areas of severe thunderstorms or possible tornadoes) has been consistently delayed since adopted by FCC in 2013 because there is no technology to provide automated conversion of this graphic information into speech. The current compliance waiver extended the compliance deadline until November 26, 2024. Watch to see if additional requests for a further extension of this deadline are filed before the current November 26, 2024 deadline.
